

Hi, I'm Brigitte Djie. I'm committed to helping professionals and entrepreneurs get in alignment with the laws of nature to create balance and joy in all areas of their personal and business life.

I've been a high-level business strategist helping big businesses make more money and what I noticed was a cycle repeating where high performing entrepreneurs were suffering from burnout from working too hard.

My dad spent 20 years building an incredible electronics empire from scratch. He worked all hours and as his business soared, his health, relationships and family life plummeted. He passed away at 54.

This hit hard home for me and since then I became really honed in on spotting the signs of when the lives of high performing entrepreneurs were beginning to fall apart.

Then, not long after, I experienced it myself. I hit rock bottom while running a financially successful speech and communication business. Even though I was making good money, I was sick, stressed and unhappy. I was facing serious health issues and nothing was working so I went on a frantic quest to look for different ways to heal myself and quite frankly, my life!

I travelled to South-east Asia to reconnect with my Eastern roots and was confronted with the huge gaps in Western life, philosophy and medicine. Through Eastern living I learned tools and rituals, trained with well-known Masters of Eastern therapies and pieced together ways of living that would bring balance, peace and efficiency in life and business as well as optimal endurance, innovation and flexibility. All with a joyous hunger for life, compassion, and a respect for all living things on this earth and beyond.

I became a Feng Shui Master, Reiki healer and integrated my strong business skills and experience in entrepreneurship to become a thought leader in wholistic living for high performing entrepreneurs.

I believe that the Leadership crisis of the 21st Century stems from forgetting that lasting success, wealth and health is built on living in alignment with the Laws of Nature. When we sacrifice our truth, we ultimately pay the price.

I've dedicated my life to helping transform the lives of high performing entrepreneurs who are out of alignment before it's too late. My mission is to create a conscious entrepreneurial culture that leads to whole people excellence.'

Fusing my skills in Feng Shui and eastern healing with high-level business strategies, I've created a systematic approach to achieving a balanced, positive flow of energy which guides the high-impact entrepreneur back to living in a state of alignment, with their inner personal and outer worldly environment.

I truly know with all my heart that if high performing entrepreneurs embrace the laws of conscious success, wealth and health right from the start, and live in alignment with their deepest truth, they CAN have it all.

Professional Bio

Brigitte Djie is founder of the Turtle Lotus System that helps high performing entrepreneurs get into alignment with their deepest self, business goals and the laws of nature, enabling success in health, wealth and relationships.

Brigitte is a highly-accomplished business strategist helping clients increase their profits by optimising systems so their business can run without them.

Entrepreneurship influenced her at an early age where she saw her father grow a small electronics shop into a large and highly successful enterprise. It was no surprise that she founded a Speech & Communication company and started her entrepreneurial journey at a young age. Brigitte's training company grew to include corporate clients such as the Merchants Group, Fortis, AG, Richmond Events and CISCO.

She was rewarded a Fellowship from the Institute of Direct Marketing (F IDM - UK) and created an Executive Coaching company, providing coaching for higher management of large companies such as Cadbury, ABN, BP, Anthony Robbins Companies and ABC Amsterdam.

Brigitte has been featured in GQ, Cosmopolitan, Zest, Flow, Yoga Magazine, Ambition and appeared in TV/radio shows such as the Big Breakfast UK, Lijn 4, RTL, Netherlands, and Radio Hatsepsut.

Her journey took a twist after her health fell apart from pushing herself too hard. Brigitte realised that when we sacrifice ourselves for the sake of our business we pay the price. She went on a quest to discover how to heal her health and repair her shattered life. This led her back to her Eastern roots in South-east Asia. There she learned how to approach business and life wholistically through training with Masters of Eastern therapies. These experiences equipped her not only with tools and practices but also with purpose and drive to help others.

Her clients have not only enjoyed long lasting success in their career but deepened their spirituality, improved their relationships, strengthened their physical wellbeing, and connected with their deep sense of purpose.

Helping people for the long term is very important to Brigitte. She has stayed connected to the homebirth support group she created in 1988 that continues to serve women locally in Southern England and the London Yes Group where she served as Chair from 1998-2002, growing the group from 20-800 members.

Brigitte has over 35 years' experience in applying successful solutions for entrepreneurs from all over the globe, witnessing first-hand the leadership crisis of the 21st century that favours profitability over purpose and progress at the expense of nature's natural resources.

She combines her business leadership skills with eastern philosophy to help high-impact entrepreneurs reach deeper levels of their whole self -intelligence as a resource to awaken their full potential.

Her other accomplishments include: facilitator, event manager and master coach for Tony Robbins. World championships Duathlon, 2 x Ironman finisher, mother of 2 adult sons, diploma in sports psychology, B Sc in Speech/Voice therapy, preschool teacher, dry skislope teacher, Firewalk trainer.

Brigitte is currently doing Masters and PhD study in Integrative medicine and is a senior trainer for Tony Robbins.

She lives in Bali which was once a dream.
